MERRY-MAKERS ARRESTED.

Two Dozen Natives in Trouble on Account of a Luau.

On the night of January 9th, a luau was given at the residence of Robert Waialeale, at Waimea, in honor of several friends from Honolulu. There were twenty-six persons present, all being natives, who enjoyed themselves as Hawaiians generally do, viz., with singing and hula dancing. Naturally, of course, a few of the young fellows became a little boisterous, and made a little more noise than was necessary. However, everything passed off pleasantly and every one went home highly joyful. Judge of the surprise caused in the district when on the following day twenty-four of those who attended the luau were arrested for disturbing the quiet of the night on warrants issued by Judge Kapuni. Sheriff Omstead made the arrest.

Robert Waialeale, at whose house the luau was held, lately managed an entertainment in aid of the Y. M. C. A. at that place and successfully carried it through, the result of his efforts being a contribution of between thirty and forty dollars to the fund of that body.

This is only one instance of the high-handed dealings carried on by annexation authorities on the Garden Isle, and the natives are wondering whether they are living in ancient times or in a civilized country. They think it is a pity they can't entertain their friends without being subjected to the humiliation of an arrest.

The parties were to have come to Honolulu, but owing to the arrest will have to stay over. Their trial was to come up to-day.

WHERE THE PEOPLE ARE.

Great Demonstration at the Concert to Mr. Davies.

Mr. Theo. H. Davies has reason to be highly gratified at the demonstration in his honor yesterday evening, when a concert complimentary to him was given at the Hawaiian Hotel by the Hawaiian National Band. There was a concourse of people crowding the spacious grounds, pressing the view from the balconies. Anywhere from 2000 to 3000 people were present to hear the superb music and testify their esteem for one of the leading champions of Hawaiian independence. In a fashionable throng in the parlor, laui and lower veranda were several officers of the American and British warships, and members of the diplomatic and consular corps. The music, especially the native songs, were received with rapturous applause. It was suggested by a connoisseur that the singing of the boys would have been helped if accompanied by a saxophone. This hint may be taken into consideration by Bandmaster Liborio for future occasions. The dense crowd of well-behaved Hawaiians who hung upon the music of their own band, cheering the patriotic refrains till the welkin rang, formed an object lesson that might well be taken to heart by the alien crews who are making preparations for a factitious jubilation over the first anniversary of the attempt to deprive this friendly and hospitable people of their national existence. The concert closed by the band playing with a vim the "Seditious" air generally known as "Hawaii Ponoi."

THE LATE FRANK S. PRATT.

Some Particulars of His Private and Public Career.

In yesterday's paper there was only time to insert a bare mention of the death of Frank S. Pratt, which took place just as the last pages were going to press.

Since his return from San Francisco several months ago, the late Mr. Pratt was not strong enough to come down town. The cause of his death was dropsy. Franklin Seaver Pratt was a native of Boston, Massachusetts, having been born there November 1, 1829. He received his education at the Franklin Institute, and came to Honolulu in 1850. It is just 44 years ago this day (January 12) that the late Mr. Pratt and W. F. Allen, who like him has held various public positions under the Government of Hawaii, sailed from Boston in the ship Eliza Warwick. Mr. Pratt left here for San Francisco after a short stay but returned to make his home in the islands.

He married in 1864 Miss Elizabeth Kekanihi Laanui, the daughter of a chief, who survives him and is well-known as one of the brightest and most cultivated women of Honolulu. Mr. Pratt was connected in business with one Mr. Luddington and again with C. A. Williams, afterward doing a prosperous business as agent of the Phoenix Guano Islands Company. After paying a visit to his old home he went into sugar planting, starting the Waimanalo plantation and having the steamer Waimanalo built on the Coast he brought her down himself. Later he went into the Olowalu plantation and then into the auction business with L. J. Levey.

Then Mr. Pratt was called into the public service as Registrar of Public Accounts, holding that position for many years. He was appointed to succeed the late David McKinley—brother of the author of the United States tariff bill now in vogue—as Hawaiian Consul-General for the Pacific Coast. He held this office until after the Provisional Government's advent, when that body removed him on account of his public defense of his wife's claim to an interest in the crown lands. Mr. Pratt was highly esteemed as a friend by his intimates and honored in always possessing the confidence of the community at large in his integrity.

The funeral will start from the deceased's residence on Printer's Lane, on Sunday, at 2:30 o'clock p.m. A funeral service will be held in St. Andrew's Cathedral, commencing punctually at 3 o'clock p.m.

Interesting Visitors.

An inventor is in town. It is Frank Walcott of Sydney, who invented the wonderful knife sharpener advertised by the Hawaiian Hardware Co. That firm knowing a good thing when it sees it bought up all of Mr. Walcott's stock of the article. It is going fast, too. Another exceedingly handy invention of Mr. Walcott's is a combination two-bladed knife and other appliances—a crosscut saw, corkscrew, 2 1/2 inch rule, glass and pattern cutter, and scales to weigh 12 pounds. This article has been taken hold of by the Yokohama Bazaar, where the inventor will attend on Saturday to give instructions how to use the knife sharpener and the attachments of the knife. He had a very successful trade in Yokohama, where he held forth in a portable booth. The P. G. law against peddling prevents him from doing business on his own account here. Mr. Walcott is accompanied by his wife. They will leave for Sydney by the Mariposa next week, and in the meantime will see as much as possible of Honolulu and environs.

There is good reason for the popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Davis & Buzard, of West Monterey, Clarion Co., Pa., say: "It has cured people that our physicians could do nothing for. We persuaded them to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and they now recommend it with the rest of us." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. Hood's Cures

Saved My Wife's Life

Weakness, Nervousness, Salt Rheum.

John W. Jones, Kalama, Wash.

"Of my own free will and accord, unblinded by anyone, and wishing only to do good to the afflicted, I wish to tell of the good qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills. I think there are no medicines equal to them, and have proved their merit by experience in my own family. My wife, Rachel, has been afflicted with weakness, nervousness, and salt rheum, and I have tried all the world's goods for doctor's pills and medicine, but I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It undoubtedly saved my wife from the grave. The salt rheum has entirely healed and she is restored to good health. I have many friends and relatives in the east who will be glad to know that."
